Come Alive
Outside
Coloring Book

Oklahoma State University
Studio Three

Limitless Opportunities of Learning Outdoors
This coloring book is a part of the “Come Alive Outside” design competition. As one designs outdoor spaces we must always remember the outdoors are home to many species already. With “Come Alive Outside” outdoor spaces are required to create or preserve a certified wildlife habitat. Certified wildlife habitats include four main pieces: provide food for wildlife, supply water for wildlife, create cover for wildlife, and give wildlife a place to raise their young. Each of these pieces is vital to wildlife’s existence and need to be created or maintained in outdoor designs. While our designs have made a conscious effort to create certified wildlife habitats so that our designs not only positively affect humans and wildlife, we felt it was important to start this educational process as young as possible and that is why we made this coloring book.

Studio Three, Oklahoma State University
There are lots of things to do outside. Step outside and come alive.
Connect the dots and see what kind of animals come alive!
This pond provides great habitat for all kinds of living things. It provides food for wildlife, supplies water for wildlife, creates cover for wildlife, and gives wildlife a place to raise their young.
Turtles are reptiles. They live on land and in the water.
One type of amphibian is a frog. They grow up underwater.
There are critters under the water too!
Add your own critters to make this outdoor adventure come alive. Don’t forget to draw people. You can find adventures everywhere if you go outside.
Draw along with us.

1. Draw the body and eyes.
2. Draw the wings, feet, and the inside of the eyes.
3. Draw the tree branch and the rest of the eyes.
4. Draw the rest of the wings underneath the tree branch.
5. Draw the details on the Owl.
6. Draw the details on the tree.

Now it is your turn!
This is how to draw a deer.

Give it a try in the space above.
Bluebirds are usually blue. If you color him red, is he a cardinal?
Don’t forget the insects. We all need habitat. The green industries can make better places for everyone and everything. The whole world comes alive when you go outside!
Come Alive Outside
Coloring Book

Oklahoma State University
Studio Three

Limitless Opportunities of Learning Outdoors